

September 2009 Vodcast

Via the Net After the Firestorm: Disseminating Evidence-Based Practice to Mental Health Professionals This unique joint vodca centers on a sample of online evidence-based resources for professionals working with communities, survivors and families affected by the 2009 Victorian bushfire disaster. This vodcast was first presented by Bronwyn Tarrant at this year's Cunningham Dax Oration and highlights the work of the Australasian Society for Traumatic Stress Studies (ASTSS); The Australian Child and Adolescent Trauma Loss and Grief Network (ACATLGN); and their members. The vodcast draws attention to the practice implications from each of the featured resources. All the resources spotlighted in this vodcast are available in entirety on this ASTSS website or www.earlytraumagrief.anu.edu.au or www.psychology.org.au/bushfire/briefing/. A vodcast is a video file made for downloading or streaming. This September 2009 vodcast is the first video to become part of our regular ASTSS podcasts. The file is 28mb so we recommend accessing the vodcast from cable or ADSL internet connections. You may need Quicktime to watch the vodcast (click here for a free Quicktime download) Click here to view the vodcast - "Via the Net After the Firestorm"